It is time to end the persecution of Microsoft.

This persecution could set a precedent that can ultimately have dire consequences to our American system of free markets. Should the D of J pursue legal action against McDonalds for the benefit of Burger King and Wendy's? Or Intel, or General Motors, etc?

The government should not be a tool of one group of businesses' attempts to gain ground on their competition.

I am not an employee of Microsoft, nor do I own, nor have I ever owned any Microsoft stock. I purchase their products solely because they are the best on the market.
